CHEAP LIVING.

The hotels which, in our cities, are conducted on what is termed the European plan, are held up as illustrations of the possibility of living at a comparatively trifling expense. In these large establishments, which afford accommodations for vast numbers of persons, lodging is furnished at prices varying from thirty to sixty cents a day, and from two to four dollars a week. The fact that the owners of these establishments almost invariably amass wealth, often in a comparatively short time, shows the large margin left for profit in these moderate charges. It may safely be estimated that these houses, crowded as they are, and doing an exclusively cash business, produce a return of from thirty to forty per cent upon the original outlay, deducting the customary allowance for wear and tear.

From these facts the inference is a fair one that the business of lodging house keepers might be made profitable and prove a great accommodation to a large class of persons. An improvement in the mode of life of such as are dependent upon restaurants and saloons for their food is demanded—good rooms and comfortable lodgings such as every person requires for his or her home of relevance from business or labor.

In New York, the benevolent have established such a home especially for women who are at any sort of service in the city, and whose homes are elsewhere. The purpose of this is, to give such females the benefits of a home at an expense not beyond their means and save them from the temptation to vice. A Women's Christian Association has been started in Boston, which is considering a similar project and has already secured property for its purposes.

The demand for cheaper living is universal. An extended currency, and especially the speculative inflation of prices, have taxed the people and oppressed those of limited means until some mode of relief is imperatively demanded. Statistics show that the cost of many articles of food to the consumer affords an excessive profit to the dealer, by which, while he is enriched, the people are impoverished. To every man who incurs the risk and trouble of supplying the community with what meets a necessity, a fair compensation is due; while the speculations which unnecessarily increase the household expense are deserving of execration, and the invention of a cheap and comfortable method of living should be esteemed a public benefactor.

A REMINISCENCE OF LOLA MONTEZ.

An interesting reminiscence of Lola Montez is given in a little tract just published by the Protestant Episcopal Society for the Promotion of Evangelical Knowledge, a Bible House. It appears that Lola Montez, who died in New York six years ago, and was buried in Greenwood under her proper name of Eliza Gilbert, became a convert to the Christian faith during her last illness. In the latter part of 1860 she was struck with paralysis of her left side and lay for some days in an unconscious state. When her system had partly rallied she became thoughtful upon religious subjects, and solicited the ministrations of the late Dr. Hawke, to whom she confided the story of her life and her hopes of a new spiritual life. Dr. Hawke has left a brief memoir in which he describes these interviews. "In the course of a long experience as a Christian minister," he writes, "I do not think I ever saw deeper penitence and humility, more real contrition of soul, and more of bitter self-reproach, than in this poor woman. When I prayed with her nothing could exceed the fervor of her devotion, and never had I a more watchful and attentive listener when I read the Scriptures."

In another passage Dr. Hawke relates that during this period the Bible was always within reach of her hand, and adds: "On my first visit, when I took up her Bible from the table the fact struck me that it opened at its own accord to the touching story of Christ's forgiveness of the Magdalene in the house of Simon." Dr. Hawke speaks warmly of Lola's genius, and dwells upon her rare natural eloquence, to which he says, he listened with admiration.

Fragments from Lola's diary are not the least interesting part of this little tract. The first extract, dated September 10, 1850, shows profound devotional feeling, and those which follow reveal the growth of a strong religious faith. In one singular passage she writes: "All that has passed in New York has not been mere illusion, feel that it is true. The Lord heard my feeble cry in His, and I feel what no human tongue can describe. Such feelings belong not to pen, or will, or words." Elsewhere she writes: "To-morrow is Sunday, and I shall go to the great little humble chapel, and there will I mingle my prayers with the fervent pastor, and with the good and true. When I pray with her nothing could exceed the fervor of her devotion, and never had I a more watchful and attentive listener when I read the Scriptures."

The U. S. District Court for this District met in this city to-day for holding the October Term. His Honor Judge Clarke, of New Hampshire presiding in place Judge Bullock of this District, who was temporarily absent from the State.

The Court met at 10 o'clock, and there appearing to be no business on the dockets, civil or criminal, the court adjourned to meet again according to law.

DROWNED.—We learn that Samuel Clarke was drowned this morning while engaged in fishing. He resided on Perry street. We have not received the particulars of the accident.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.—The buoy on Throgs' point is 50 yards West of its proper position. Three vessels have been ashore at that place within a week in consequence.

MARINE DISASTER.—The New York evening papers report the Schr. Lens Hunter from Newport for Philadelphia ashore at Hell Gate.

The Metropolis carried a host of passengers last night. We could see no decrease of the number since only this and the Stonington lines were in operation.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT AT NORTH EASTON.—Mr. George Randall, a baggage master on the North Easton train, on the Old Colony Railroad, fell under a baggage car near that town on Friday evening, and one of the wheels passed over one of his legs, stripping off the flesh from the knee to the heel, and fracturing the latter. The surgeon who attended him thinks amputation can be avoided. Mr. Randall resides in North Easton, and was taken to his home.

PENSOXAL.—Gen. B. F. Butler was among the passengers for New York on the Metropolis, last night. He was en route for Washington to meet the Committee to investigate the circumstances connected with the assassination of President Lincoln.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE OF COTTON.—We understand that another deficiency, to the amount of twenty thousand dollars, has been discovered between the number of bales of cotton called for by the books of a certain cotton warehouse in this city, and the number of bales in store. So far as ascertained, about three hundred bales, belonging to different parties and lost on shore, have mysteriously disappeared. Our readers will connect this with a cotton warehouse which was destroyed by fire several months ago. The principal party in the above affair is said to be in Canada. We shall give details as soon as the ends of justice will warrant.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

The Central Pacific Railway.
The United States commissioners have completed their inspection of the section of the Central Pacific Railroad west of Cisco and unanimously recommended its acceptance by the government. Four miles of roofing have been completed over the section and two and a half miles additional will be completed this fall. From Coburn's station the cars are running eastward eight and a half miles, and the construction train is laying the track at the rate of a mile and a half per day. In thirty days the section will be completed. The intermediate section over the summit will not be completed until early in the spring. By August the cars will be running to Tuck River, near Crystal Peak.

HOTEL AT THE BRACE.—Somebody is contemplating a very valuable improvement—the building of a hotel on the cliff adjacent to and overlooking the bathing beach. The front part of the Fillmore House is being demolished from the remainder, and if Isidor will be removed to the site of the Ocean Cottage destroyed by fire last spring, where some New York gentlemen will establish a first class summer hotel, capable of accommodating one hundred boarders.

This we regard as the most sensible move ever made in Newport in the hotel line.

It is a hotel in the right place, overlooking a vast expanse of ocean with its waves dashing at one's feet, and inviting one to slumber by their ceaseless music, and into which a guest at the house might plunge at any time without let or hindrance from land or vehicle.

We should not be surprised if an enlargement of premises was found necessary at the expiration of the first season. The influence of the Fillmore

House will be converted into dwellings after the manner of the Bellevue Inn or three years since.

A VALUABLE MAP.—The Post Office Department has issued a map of the Post Routes and Post Offices in the New England States, giving the directions and distances of the several offices from each other. The map is beautifully engraved and nicely colored, and it will be a great convenience to all who have much occasion to use the mails or ascertain the location of post offices—the distances, or the frequency with which the mails touch any point in question.

This map is to be followed by a series of others embracing, in succession, the other States necessary or in groups: Those of New York and the middle Atlantic States are in progress, and will slowly appear.

Besides the distribution to Postmasters for the service of the Department, these maps are on sale to the general public and may be procured at the P. O. Department (Second assistant Postmaster General) or from the Sale agencies at Philadelphia, N. York, Boston (E. P. Dutton & Co.), and Port Iland.

ORAL WEDDING.—The friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac French gathered in large numbers at their residence in this city, last evening, to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of their marriage. There was a general reunion of relatives residing here and elsewhere, and a pleasant time was enjoyed. We trust the parties in whose honor the celebration was given will see the "golden" anniversary, and many more further on than even that.

FALL PLOUGHING.

Normally, man is said to require nine hours and a precept upon precept; and not does the farmer require his attention to be called in season and out of season, to his duty of thoroughly preparing his soil for the future crop. The task of winter works worsens upon a stubborn clay soil when turned up in the autumn. No implement, hand or horse, can so thoroughly disintegrate it, besides it sweetens and purifies the soil from unfavorable acids, and thus enables the farmer to plough his land deeper than in spring. Every farmer, especially one who cultivates heavy land, should endeavor, to deepen his surface soil from six to twelve inches. And the fall is the true time to do this. Some years since we ploughed only five or six inches, turning up four inches of light colored clay, never before disturbed. Neighbors who saw the work did not like it, and it would require several years seasoning before any thing would grow. Regardless of these prophecies, we drilled in two and a half bushels of oats per acre, and had a yield of forty-five bushels per acre, through the field of ten acres.

ESCAPE OF PRISONERS.—Two "bold sojourners" escaped at an early hour this morning from their cells in the Station House by unscrewing and removing the grating from the ventilator over the cell doors. The City Marshall thinks, as they were put in for trivial offences they might do the city a service in demonstrating the insecurity of the cells from this cause and leading to a remedy. The next chaps who get out there will have a more difficult job.

THE STREET COMMISSIONER.—Unmasking the wisdom of his administration by renewing the pavement in Mary Street. It would be a great improvement to locomotion were the stones taken out of all the city streets, with the exception of Thames and Spring.

All who have occasion to pass up or down Tonno Street can bear testimony to the benefit that thoroughfare has derived from the change.

THADDEUS STEVENS ON IMPEACHMENT.—A special says Thaddeus Stevens has written a letter in which he announces his intention to urge upon Congress as soon as it meets in November to pass a general impeachment law, defining the offences upon which an officer may be impeached, and declaring that no officer shall continue to exercise the functions of his office during his trial, and also the passage of a law providing that no State shall have power to prohibit citizens of the United States, whatever their race, color, or religion, from voting for President or Congressmen.

FOOLHARDNESS.—An accident occurred recently in the London Zoological Gardens, which would have proved serious except for the energetic interference of one of the keepers. A man about fifty years of age went under the iron guard in front of the bear-pit, adjoining the dens of the lions and tigers, and began teasing a brown bear. The result was that Bruno caught the right arm of the man in its jaws, after having first taken a piece out of the shoulder of his coat, and was beginning to operate with his teeth, when a cry was raised, and a keeper ran to the spot and by vigorously hitting the animal's jaws with a stick, caused it to release its victim.

Much fault is found in England with the treatment by the Foreign Office of Edward Thornton, now Minister at Brazil, to represent Great Britain at Washington, as announced last week in the London Times.

The opinion is generally expressed that none but a diplomatist of the highest rank should be sent to the United States to fill the post occupied by Sir Frederick Bruce.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT AT NORTH EASTON.

Mr. George Randall, a baggage master on the North Easton train, on the Old Colony Railroad, fell under a baggage car near that town on Friday evening, and one of the wheels passed over one of his legs, stripping off the flesh from the knee to the heel, and fracturing the latter.

The surgeon who attended him thinks amputation can be avoided.

Mr. Randall resides in North Easton, and was taken to his home.
